The heart of your home

Fire, tiled stove & architecture – the heart of your home

Sensuousness, beauty in imperfection

The world manifests itself through senses. Whoever has ever felt the smell of the burning wood or the earth after the storm knows this unique moment of clarity. When a sense of being immerses in you, the world becomes wider and reality unfolds. At Terra Ignis such moments are precious because they guide us to beauty.

Terra Ignis was founded to keep and transmit the long lasting tradition of ceramic tiles. The manufacture searched tirelessly for new, improved solutions to the technical challenges we faced while manufacturing efficient and beautiful tiles. The company engineers, ceramists and artists are motivated by the same passion to create the most efficient and perfect masonry heaters.

When your sight perceives our tiled stoves, you can discover a landscape of a rich deepness. The glaze reflects the light and shine of its shades. What can be perceived as imperfect, results in enriching our experience and our relations to the world. Looking at our stoves will make you understand its composition, a system that has its inner structure and qualities, a resonating ensemble.

Being around the fire is accepting an invitation from a friend. Entering a circle of confidence that can be observed in every corner of the world. It is here where space has found its origin. While we perceive the world with our eyes, something deeper resides in space, a friendly presence. Something that we cannot see, but feel. In between the tangible and the intangible.

Stoves heat our bodies, as they heat our souls. Touching the warm ceramic tiles is for those who experienced it, an extraordinary sensation of being in the world. Ceramics keeps, transfers, distributes and heats. Any source of clay is unique, like any human being. At Terra Ignis, materials are authentic, they carry their own life that our craftsmen have to understand. Nature does nothing in vain, earth gives us everything. In that sense we focus on what matters; ceramics looks, feels and sounds for what it is. We call it authenticity.

Each stove is prepared with the idea that our senses must be cared for if you want to experience the world consciously. Each stove has the soul of the earth speaking to us. In its layers it keeps a mark of the world that our craftsmen carefully weight in between their fingers. The knowledge of the materials is the source of motivation to create the individual work of art. The variety of the ceramics of our stoves is what makes them unique.

Choosing a place to live is an important decision that can only be handled with a strong vision. Such a place of our dreams is the centre for the family and the centre for better communication, a place that goes beyond trends and fashion. The moments spent together around the fire are precious, and provide us with the balance needed in our private life.. At Terra Ignis we believe that the reintroduction of the hearth into your home can become the scene of spontaneous desires and needs.

ThermaCeramic

Understanding an extraordinary geological memory

Millions years ago, under the continuous action of the wind and the rain, a gift was slowly taking shape. The clay; the extraordinary geological memory has slowly been generated from the decomposition of the granite. Caused by the pullout of particles of mica, quartz and feldspath which has been transformed in the form of clay leaflets. These geological layers became the deposit from which the first earthenware came from. If all the clays do not look all the same and their composition differs from the different particles combined altogether, it is no doubt that earth is the soil on which all our cultures developed, creating places of the same love for ceramics, construction and agriculture.

A revolution in ceramic, for greater and longer thermal radiation

The materials used to make ceramic tiled stoves have remained the same for centuries. While ceramics has been used for all sort of things, it is no surprise that we can find it on our table, in the breaks of our cars and in the International Space Agency. Ceramics cannot be reduced to only one type of material but to an important panel of manifestations and usage. If fire is our most precious patron, the only way to show respect to it, is to ensure the fire that it was used in a good way, thus innovation becomes part of our gratitude to it.

In the strictest tradition Terra Ignis developed and refined a very special formula. Perfected after the intensive research and development ThermaCeramic was finally ready. A new, unique ceramics of unprecedented properties. Strong, malleable, with great thermal radiation properties and environmentally friendly, ThermaCeramic gives artists and designers almost limitless freedom to experiment. The impressive know-how in chemistry was applied to compose a complete new formula for our ceramics. It is a true masterpiece of innovation that allows the creation of robust and even more efficient stoves that will stand for generations. Such a thorough research is vital for the company like ours, which needs to constantly reset the rules of its games.

Fireplace – new way of displaying fire

The fireplace is made to keep the tradition of gathering around fire, where we spend our most precious moments. What strikes us most is its simplicity and its never-ending capacity to amaze, reminding us what it means to be home. Just you and the fire, where no solitude remains but the mystic transfer.

The fireplaces have made history and continue to do so. Whether the hearth is open or closed, no one can deny the positive effect that the flame can have on us.

Available in different sizes, displays and with different finishes they can be adjusted to any needs and demands.

Tiled stove – the symbol of the art of heating

The tiled stove is the emanation of the Terra Ignis' masterpiece, combining the know-how and the competence of many generations of stove makers. Its capacity to accumulate the heat for a long period of time in result of a minimum combustion is certainly its most striking characteristic.

With its unconventional design, the masonry heater has written an important chapter of the architectural history and cannot be separated from the European cultural evolution.

Available in various versions and finishes, its technology can be adjusted to different types of needs and will make you appreciate winter again.

Kitchen – honouring the Art of Cooking

Terra Ignis' tile-stove setters are repeatedly confronted with design challenges when they develop a tiled kitchen system. This results in totally new and innovative displays. Developed to combine the worktop, the cooktop, the ovens and the kitchen sink, every Terra Ignis Kitchen System is the starting point to all culinary traditions. In order to keep the essence of cooking our kitchens are made to fulfill 8 primary functions – Preparing, Cleaning, Cooking, Baking, Grilling,

Smoking, Heating & Organizing. Each system always starts with the fire and finding the best conceivable – which means technically optimized and aesthetically perfect – ergonomic solutions. The issue is not to incorporate as many parts as possible or to maximize complexity. What counts is the culinary virtuosity that you can achieve. This particular approach not only inspires lucid and timeless masonry oven designs but also defines the beginning of your own culinary tradition.
